

ABOUT

Graham Curtin is a New Jersey-based law firm that prides itself on the decades of strategic legal services it has provided to clients, who include national and international insurance companies, other lawyers and law firms, manufacturers and distributors of goods, hotels and casinos, real estate developers, medical providers and governmental entities, among many others. Graham Curtin has the privilege of having long-term relationships with its clients attributable to the firm's service-oriented approach that engenders trust in each client relationship.

In addition to a deep involvement with the bench and bar, our litigation attorneys appear in courts nationwide and regularly practice before all levels of the New York and New Jersey state and federal courts with a focus on insurance defense, insurance coverage, complex commercial, class action defense, construction, family law, and estates and trusts litigation. Our corporate law practice provides innovative solutions and unparalleled negotiation and execution of mergers and acquisitions, and commercial, corporate finance and securities transactions to domestic and global companies. Our trust and estate practice is built on offering a personal approach to each client's unique concerns regarding generational wealth management, asset protection and the impact of complex tax consequences.
